the musical larce, "A Made Man," will be produced for the first time. On Thursday night a grain production of a new spectacular Christmas play called, "A Trip Through Fairyland," will take place. There will be gorgeous scenery and three new ballets.

"The Scout" will be seen at the Grand Opera-House next week with the scenery and accessories that were used at Niblo's during the long run of the piece there. Dr. Carver will appear as "the evil spirit of the piains," and the wild Sloux Indians, cowboys, Meximal the wild Sloux

To-morrow night Gilmore's Band will give a concert at this house.

At the Lyceum Theatre "Americans Abroad" begins the second week of its engagement wonday night. It is hard to believe that Sardou wrote the piece, but from the box-office of the Lyceum comes this: "Sardou has cabled Manager Frohman his congratulations upon the performance and production given his new comedy."

"The lise of Champagne" has done a very good business at the Manhattan Opera-House during the past week. Thomas Q. Seabrooke, as the bibulous King Pommery II., covers himself with giory, and is, in fact, the whole show. One or two of his scenes are genuine hits of comedy. The piece is staged in a very layish manner.

bits of comedy. The piece is staged in a very lavish manner.

At the Fourteenth Street Theatre "The Ensign," william Haworth's play, is attracting a good deal of attention, as it deserves to do, It is a very worthy effort, and its story—an interesting one—is told with considerable graphic power. The piece is well acted by Mr. Neill, Miss Ruth Carpenter, George Fawcett, little Edith Wright and others.

"A Society Fag," with a cast including Lydia Yealease-litus, Dan Daly, Tyrone Power, Julius Witmark, John Jennings, Luke Schoolcraft, J. C. Miron, Amelia Giover, Rate Lart, Margaret Fitzpatrick, William Cameron, Nellie Farker and Ethel Ormond has settled down for a very long run at the Bijou

Miron, Amelia Giover, Kate Fart, Margaret Fitzpatrick, William Cameron, Neille Parker and Ethel Ormond has settled down for a very long run at the Bijou Theatre.

"A Glided Fool" ends its fifth week at the Fifth Avenue Theatre tonight. As the business has not railen of from its highest notch, there seems no reason why Mr. Goodwin should not keep right at it for the short remainder of his stay. Mr. Goodwin is wonderfoilly funoy, and the author of the play is under heavy coligations to him.

"The Soudan" will be acted at the Windsor Theatre next week by Annie Mayer, Annie Lockhart, Fortia Albee, Alice Hunt, James Horne, Alexander Kearney, Horace Lewis, Charles J. Jackson and Joseph Callahan. The realistic riot scene in Tratalgar Square, Lon-

Layman, the Lorettis and Tessic Langton will also appear.

The legend "standing room only" is still displayed nearly every night at the Gardon Theatre, where the lostonians present De Koven and Smith's dainty opera. "Robin Hood." The Wednesday matinees have been a success and they will be continued. The iditian Russell Comic Opera Company opens at this theatre Dec. 2d.

The imanagement of Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre announce the tarewell performance of Neil Burgess in "The County Fair," which is now in the one hundred and fitteenth week of its New York run. It is in exceitent shape and the race seens goes with great effect. After leaving New York Burgess will play is Philadelphia, Boston and San Francisco.

At the Eden Musee the wax figure representing the late Jay Gould has been the centre of interested crowds during the week. The management of this house declare that Mr. Gould sat for the cast of his features to a Musee artist several times. Guibal and Greville and Ando and Oume may still be seen on the stage of the Musee.

Miss Viola Victoria, a London favorite, will make her debut at Tony Pastor's Theater Monday night, and it is expected that she will make a great hit. Katic Lawrence, J. W. Keily, the Julians, Miss Bertha Waring, Mes. Bride and Geodrich, the La Rosa Brothers, Layman, the Lorettis and Testic Langton will also appear.

Gen. Paine, Chairman of the America's Cup Race Committee of the N. Y. Y. C., said in Boston last night that the "Cup Committee will undoubtedly recommend the acceptance by the Club of the Royal Yacht Squadron's challenge." That would seem to be official enough coming from the Chairman himself, who tasks with newspaper men with extreme rarity. It is binted that a few little things omitted in the challenge have been straightened out satisfactorily by the use of the cable, and now the Committee of Five stands in a much better and safer position to recommend an acceptance than it did on Monday at the meeting in ex-Conmodere Smith's office.

Gne striking feature of the Press Cup Carnival of words.

One striking feature of the Press Club carnival of sports at Madison Square Garden ext saturday atternoon and evening, will be the exhibitions of equestrianism. The game of jeu de barre, or tag on horseback, will be peculiarly interesting. It will be played by three skilled borsemen, each with a piece of ribbon fastened to his lett tapel. Differing from the ordinary tag of our school days, this game provides that two shall chase one. The object is to get the ribbon away from the one they are chasing. To do this they must reach over his right side. Besides there will be exhibitions of high school riding by acknowledged equestrian experts. PERSIAN PUNISHMENT.
